

Usdaw Supporting Parents and Carers

Unpaid carers make a huge contribution to the NHS, to society as a whole and to the people they care for.

But the cost of living crisis is putting carers' already stretched incomes under even greater pressure, putting many at risk of financial hardship.

Millions of people in the UK juggle their unpaid caring responsibilities with paid work. Balancing work and care can be a real struggle - with many carers saying they are tired, stressed, worried about money and struggling to manage their own physical and mental health. They urgently need more support to ensure they can remain in work.

Will you lend our campaign your support so together we can Stand Up For Carers?

#StandUpForCarers

Usdaw is campaigning for a better deal for unpaid carers, including:

- Ending poverty amongst carers by pushing for policies that adequately value and support unpaid carers.
- Reforming the benefits system to better support carers financially in the short and long term.
- The introduction of paid leave for carers.
